

District Parks

Silverwoods Park is used by Londoners for various forms of recreation activities, including swimming, wading pool, playground, cricket, dry pad activities, and passive recreation.

Silverwoods Park is defined as a district park. District parks typically serve a collection of neighbourhoods and offer a wide range of opportunities for activities, programs, rentals, and events. They are destinations and often require parking, lighting, and washrooms to properly support amenities and park users. Amenities at district parks typically include sports fields, lit sport courts, spray pads, playgrounds, community gardens, and pathways.
